THE HIGHEST FEED INTAKE BEFORE WEANING

Denkapig Prestarter

The Denkapig Prestarter concept is based on tasty and highly digestible raw materials and a significant dairy content. The crude protein level of Denkapig Prestarter exceeds 21-22%, obtained from a high level of easily digestible amino acids. A second important feature is the very high energy level. Supported by an excellent intake the piglets are supplied with an outstanding amount of digestible energy.

Feeding in the farrowing pen

For a proper feed intake providing small amounts of fresh product is very important. Other essential factors are the type of feeding bowl used, the distance between the feeding bowl and the water source for the piglets and the hygiene level in the farrowing pen. Investing time and effort in feeding of the piglets before weaning will pay back by easing growth and performance in the post weaning period.

Preparation of piglets for the post weaning period

In the composition of Denkapig Prestarter carefully selected sources of vegetable protein are included. This stimulates the production of enzymes needed for digestion of vegetable feed components. In this way, the piglets will be better prepared for the post weaning period.

Performance

The Prestarter concept has been developed to achieve a maximum intake of dry feed before the difficult weaning period.
